I have tried all of the following. Invalidate Caches/RestartSync project with gradle filesClean projectRebuild projectgradlew cleanBut, none of them worked for me. Finally, I solved it by deleting "{ProjectFolder}/.idea/libraries", and then synced with gradle and built again. Cannot Resolve Symbol 'R': Cannot Resolve Symbol 'R'가 . . . 가 . Sometimes "react-native link XXX" won't do its job. We have to manually change files on Android Studio to link the packages. "SplashScreen doesn't exist" is one of the issues caused by linking error. I will use it as an example to demo how to link package manually. Issue Summary: Got SplashScreen doesn't exist error when using react-native-splash-screen package for a react native Android app. Error messages from MainActivity.java file are "Cannot resolve symbol devio" and "Cannot resolve symbol SplashScreen". Below is my MainActivity.java. One Line Solution: Link react-native-splash-screen manually. Solution Details: In my case, I installed and (tried to) link react-native-splash-screen package by-However, after restarting Android Studio, the package didn't show in my project. And gave me the errors listed above. Left: wrong VS. Right: the goal! After a long time research, I figured out that the installed package didn't link automatically for some reason, and I need to manually link it. If you have the same issue, please follow the instruction below. Open project in Android Studio: In app/Gradle Scripts/settings.gradle, add: 2. In app/Gradle Scripts/build.gradle(Module: app), add: 3. Register module in app/java/YourProjName/MainApplication.java: 4. Restart Android Studio and emulator, you should be good to go! ~Happy coding!~ Related Resources: Send MainActivity 가 가: 가 Android 3.0 가.
